Literature Review Template

Definition: A literature review is an objective, critical summary of published research literature relevant to a topic under consideration for research. Its purpose is to create familiarity with current thinking and research on a particular topic, and may justify future research into a previously overlooked or understudied area.

A typical literature review consists of the following components:

1. Introduction:

- A concise definition of a topic under consideration (this may be a descriptive or argumentative thesis, or proposal), as well as the scope of the related literature being investigated. (Example: If the topic under consideration is 'women's wartime diaries', the scope of the review may be limited to published or unpublished works, works in English, works from a particular location, time period, or conflict, etc.)
- The introduction should also note intentional exclusions. (Example: "This review will not explore the diaries of adolescent girls.")
- Another purpose of the introduction is to state the general findings of the review (what do most of the sources conclude), and comment on the availability of sources in the subject area.

2. Main Body:

- There are many ways to organize the evaluation of the sources. Chronological and thematic approaches are each useful examples.
- Each work should be critically summarized and evaluated for its premise, methodology, and conclusion. It is as important to address inconsistencies, omissions, and errors, as it is to identify accuracy, depth, and relevance.
- Use logical connections and transitions to connect sources.

3. Conclusion

- The conclusion summarizes the key findings of the review in general terms. Notable commonalities between works, whether favourable or not, may be included here.
- This section is the reviewer's opportunity to justify a research proposal. Therefore, the idea should be clearly re-stated and supported according to the findings of the review.

Example of a Well-Written Research Proposal: Clinical Research Project

Figure 100: The following proposal was written by a student who was assigned to write the research proposal for summer 2001. The name is slightly different than what is required for the summer 2006 application.

B. Description of Project
Making Healthy Connections: Monitoring, Monitoring and Measurement

1. Title of Project:
Making Healthy Connections: Monitoring, Monitoring and Measurement

2. Description/Goals of Project:
a. To assess the impact of a group and individual monitoring health promotion intervention on the health and quality of life of adolescents with intellectual and motor disabilities.
b. Conduct a pilot study to assess the impact of an inpatient advocacy program (Here-to- Help) on the reduction of health disparities for hospitalized patients who cannot understand or express their health care needs and desires.
As a result of several serious medical errors in 2001 involving patients with intellectual disabilities, the BMC Chief Medical Officer, Julie Chouhan, MD, MPH, called in a group of community advocacy agencies (e.g., the Massachusetts Arc), community organizations providing medical care to persons with cognitive disabilities (e.g., Shriver Clinical Services), and a number of BMC faculty with expertise in disability (e.g., Mary Corbett, PhD, Clara Andy, PhD, Marc Frenkel, MD) to develop a set of guidelines for their patients. The inpatient advocacy program, Here-to-Help (H2H) resulted from these meetings. Volunteers are recruited from the BMC, Volunteer Office and are usually Harvard and MIT medical students. At this point, it is important to investigate whether the program is achieving its primary objectives (see Hypothesis below). Surgeon General David Satcher's first report, Disaster: The State of Health Disparities among People with Mental Disabilities, contained a new awareness of the large disparities in health care and health outcomes for people with intellectual disabilities. The H2H program is the only program in the country that addresses this issue on an inpatient basis.

3. Hypothesis Being Tested:
I will be testing the hypothesis that an inpatient advocacy program will (1) reduce medical errors; (2) reduce the rate of hospitalization; (3) increase patient (and community) and other appropriate satisfaction; and (4) decrease health disparities among patients with intellectual disabilities hospitalized on the BMC—when compared to matched patients who did not participate.

4. My Role/What I Intend to Accomplish:
I will be the primary research assistant on the Here-to-Help project for this summer. While the center research grant continues until September of this year, mine is a contained project within the research. I will interview patients participating in the Here-to-Help program and review their data in order to obtain an assessment of the effectiveness of the program to date. I will record data, enter it into the community, and learn to complete simple statistical analyses. In addition, since at least some of good health care outcomes depends on information provided, I will work with Dr. Corbett to develop health promotion materials appropriate to the literacy level of our patients.
